$450,000 Bond Issue On Ballots

City Must Solve Sewage Problem, But Debate Goes On

By JACK VARLEY

Most people will agree that something has to be done to alleviate the present sewage disposal problem in Salem, but a large amount of controversy arises when the method of financing the project enters the picture.

Several methods have been suggested; two have been tried. The people of Salem will have an opportunity to determine whether a third one recently passed by City Council will be used when they go to the polls in the November election to vote on the $450,000 general obligation sewage plant bond issue.

With the possibility of a $500 a day fine staring it in the face, Salem must meet the Jan. 6 deadline set by the state as the day when some definite action must be taken in the direction of providing more sewage facilities for the city.

The proposed plan to increase the facilities carries with it an estimated cost of $750,000. Suggested by the Malcolm Pirnie Engineers of New York, it would build additions to the present plant rather than a second plant on the south side of the city. According to the engineering firm, it would handle the problem adequately and would be the cheapest.

To finance the project, the administration plans to sell $325,000 in mortgage revenue bonds and raise $450,000 through general obligation bonds.

Mortgage revenue bonds are sold to a bonding company for a cash loan and are paid off from the revenue the city gets as income for service it renders. In this case, it is derived from a direct sewage tax based on water consumption. General obligation bonds are also sold to a bonding company, but they must be paid off with money assessed of the community's real estate and tangible property.

The principle and interest on the $325,000 mortgage revenue bonds, plus the operating cost of the present plant, would be derived from the revenue the city receives from the 35 per cent sewer tax levied against city water users.

One Mill Would Be Assessed Property Owners

And where would the money to pay off the principle and interest on the $450,000 come from? City property owners would find it added on their tax duplicate.

At the maximum rate specified by Council's resolution asking the Board of Elections to place the measure on the ballot, it would amount to one mill, or, in other words, for every $1,000 of property that appears on the tax duplicate, the taxpayer would pay an extra dollar. At the present time, the tax rate in Salem is $26.80 on $1,000 worth of property and with the addition it would become $27.80.

However, these figures are based on the maximum rate of interest of six per cent the resolution will allow to be charged. It is more probable that the interest rate for the 25-year bonds will be between three and four percent and this in turn will reduce the millage added.

Proponents, Opponents Differ On Financing

But, opponents of the plan argue that sewage is a service and those who receive it should pay for it. A sewage tax puts the burden on those who use the facilities. Going further, they state that the bond issue will be a hardship to people, especially older people, who use little water, but own their own homes.

Another point advocates of the issue bring up is that a landowner's property increases in value as a result of such improvements as sewage. Opponents say that the property valuation goes up because the sewage is there, not because of the service. In other words, the valuation increases because the property owner paid to have the sewage installed, not because of the service derived. And when the valuation goes up, so does the tax.

Another argument voiced by the pro-bond issue group is that they are opposed to spending such a large sum as $750,000 without giving the people a voice in the matter. According to James Aldom, City Council president, "Council could raise the amount through mortgage revenue financing, but it isn't fair to the people. Outlays of that size

Question Of Future Capital Improvements

But, the anti-general obligation bond camp argues, if you can finance such a project as the sewage plant by mortgage revenue bonds you should because then you leave your credit free for future capital improvements that can't be financed in any other way than through general obligation bonds. An example of this would be a major street improvement or any emergency action.

To this Aldom replies referring to the bond issue, "This is an emergency."

Proponents of the old 65 per cent tax claim that had it not been repeated last November the cost of the sewage plant could have been paid off in eight years. From April until November of last year it brought in $63,395.37 of which $60,689.20 is on hand awaiting a decision as to whether or not it can be refunded.

But, say opponents of the 65 per cent tax, the eight-year plan wouldn't have worked because state law requires that you have the cash on hand when such a project is started; you can't build on future revenue. Then too, they say, there is some question as to whether or not the state would have allowed the work to be done a portion at a time.

Also, this was based on a plan by the late F. S. Barckhoff to build a new sewer plant on the south

Administration Foresees Huge Hike In Deficit

Security Programs Cut; Outlays Boosted In Civilian Fields

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has boosted the deficit it foresees for this fiscal year to nearly 4 1/2 billion dollars even while slashing a new 3 billion from major security programs.

But it has upped planned outlays in a dozen civilian fields where they could be a spur to production and employment.

The annual revision of spending and income estimates for the current fiscal year, which began July 1, was made public last night, indicating these over-all changes:

Total Spending Reduced

Total spending was reduced from the $55,600,000,000 planned when President Eisenhower submitted the fiscal 1955 budget to Congress last January to a new estimate of $54,100,000,000. This compares with fiscal year which ended June 30.

The estimate of net budget receipts was cut from $62,700,000,000 in January to $59,300,000,000. Principal factors contributing to the reduction were congressional tax cuts, bigger-than-expected refunds, and a sharp drop in corporation tax payments. Collections last fiscal year came to $64,600,000,000.

Since the $3,400,000,000 drop in expected revenues outweighed the $1,600,000,000 cut in spending, the administration's estimate of its probable deficit at the end of the fiscal year rose from $2,900,000,000 predicted in January to $4,700,000,000. In fiscal 1954, red ink spending came to 3 billions.

Try To Chop Spending

However, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told a news conference the administration would try "every day, every week and every month" to chop spending where it would hurt neither defense nor the economy.

And W. J. McNeil, assistant secretary of defense and chief fiscal officer of the Pentagon, told newsmen that despite the new reduction in defense spending, industry would get about twice the volume of defense contracts this year that it received last year. This action, by putting an increased flow of defense contracts in the pipeline, would tend to spur production and employment.

Secretary Humphrey said, "We are seeking more defense for less money, rather than changing the state of our defenses."

Quaker City Band Prepares For Next Year

The American Legion Quaker City Band, which won second place honors in national Legion competition recently, is already making preparations to enter state and national legion competition in 1955.

Announcement of this aim was made today by Director Chester Brautigam, who extended an invitation to all musicians in the city to attend rehearsals, starting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Home.

Brautigam stressed the need for a well-balanced band and hopes for a 60-member aggregation, an increase of 10 over this year's winning combination. He said that the first place Joliet, Ill., band had 100 members with 77 playing in the national competition.

In celebration of their second place win in Washington, a party was held last Thursday night in the Legion home with 80 persons—band members, Legionnaires and friends—enjoying a buffet supper. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kridler were in charge of arrangements.

During the evening Post Commander Clifford Whinnery presented certificates of merit to Hollinger, Leslie Brantingham and William Schaeffer, as band managers.

Frank Ullom, who took the band by bus to both national and state capitals, showed colored movies of the band in action.

Low Bid Reported On County Road Project

Edgar Spring Inc. of New Philadelphia submitted the low bid of $183,938 for improving 3.5 miles of U. S. Route 30 in St. Clair and Madison townships, Columbiana County, the state highway department reported today.

The project will include widening of the bridge over Long's Run. The Department had estimated the cost of the work at $194,200.

Probe Group To Finish Report

Reject McCarthy's Rap At Legal Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of a special committee weighing charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today they hope to complete the framework of their report by the week's end.

The six-senator committee, headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), yesterday unanimously rejected McCarthy's challenge of the impartiality of its legal staff.

The group expressed "absolute confidence in the fairness" of E. Wallace Chadwick, chief counsel Guy G. de Furia, his assistant, and all other members of the legal staff.

McCarthy had said Chadwick and De Furia had acted as "prosecutors" at the committee's nine-day hearings, and he suggested the group hire new lawyers to help draft its report to the Senate.

Watkins announced the decision at a news conference following day-long closed conferences with his committee, but he declined to talk about what form or tone the report may take.

As the committee returned to the job today, other sources said language the group employed in announcing the vote of confidence in the legal staff fits into plans to have the six committee members sketch the broad outline or framework of the report, then let the lawyers fill in the details.

Watkins declined to go beyond the official announcement of the confidence vote which said:

"The committee points out that the members of the committee will make all of the decisions, and that they do not need to rely on counsel in the making of these decisions."

The Senate has agreed to return to session later this year to consider, in the light of the committee's findings, a censure resolution aimed at McCarthy by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) and 46 overlapping charges Flanders and Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Morse (Ind-Ore.) filed in support of it.

The committee completed public hearings Monday on five main groups of the charges. Flanders made public yesterday an additional brief covering accusations on which no hearings were held—accusing McCarthy of attempts to coerce the press. Office aides said Flanders has others he plans to file.

CAR CRASH KILLS MAN PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Raymond Ruak, 52, of Portsmouth was killed today in a head-on automobile collision here.

Police said the other automobile's driver, Riley E. May, 30, of Portsmouth, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated. Robert D. Brown, 24, of Vienna, W. Va., May's passenger, received a broken arm.

Executive Committee Named For City's Sesquicentennial

Salem's sesquicentennial celebration in 1956 received an initial boost Tuesday evening when 90 members of the Salem Historical Society and representatives of all known civic and church organizations in the city met in the Memorial Building.

Attorney George Bowman, president of the Historical group, was elected to head the sesquicentennial executive committee and assisting him as co-chairmen were Gail Herron, W. H. Matthews and Alroy Bloomberg.

of hydrogen and atomic bomb assures free world retaliation of "overwhelming power" against any enemy attack.

President Eisenhower "very reluctantly" accepted the resignation of Smyth who cast the only dissenting vote last June when the commission refused to lift Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer's suspension from access to secret atomic data.

The summer White House announced Eisenhower is naming Willard Frank Libby, 45-year-old University of Chicago atomic scientist, to succeed Smyth on the AEC elective Sept. 30.

In resigning, Smyth wrote Eisenhower:

Cites Huge Stockpile

"I hope atomic weapons will continue to act as deterrents to war. But if attack should come, the stockpile we have prepared would assure this country and the free world the capacity to answer with overwhelming power."

Smyth, 56, the only current member of the five-man AEC with a scientific background, has served since President Truman appointed him May 31, 1949, to a term expiring June 30, 1956.

He plans to return to Princeton University, where he was chairman of the physics department and on the faculty from 1924 to 1949.

Smyth's letter to the President made no mention of his dissent in the case of Oppenheimer, who was ruled a security risk by the other four AEC members. Nor did Smyth say anything about differences with Lewis L. Strauss, commission chairman.

In a minority report on the Oppenheimer case, Smyth said he had no doubt about Oppenheimer's loyalty, a point on which the other members agreed with him.

Felt Air Of Tension

In July before the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, Smyth testified he felt there was an air of tension on the commission under Chairman Strauss. He joined other Truman-appointed commissioners in opposing a move to give Strauss legal position as the AEC's "principal officer." The move lost and the members retain equal authority on policy matters.

In accepting Smyth's resignation, Eisenhower wrote him expressing "my warm regard and best wishes" and said:

"I am sincerely grateful for all that you have done in the service of your government."

"In that service you have every reason for pride and personal satisfaction. You have advanced the

One-Way Streets Mean Exactly That

Stating that out-of-town motorists failing to observe one-way streets were causing enough of a bottleneck to the city traffic problem, Police Chief George Earley requested today that local motorists be especially observant of the city's one-way streets designed to facilitate the flow of traffic during the State St. improvement.

Earley pointed out that many of the violators are city residents who should have learned by now that 2nd St. is designated one-way to westbound traffic while Pershing is one-way for eastbound motorists.

Named secretary was Dale Culbertson, with Floyd McKee, treasurer. Mr. Matthews, who is 80 years old, served as secretary of the city's centennial celebration in 1906.

Division chairmen are as follows: Special projects, Matt Melitschka; financing, E. M. Stephenson; planning and engineering, Arch Harwood; special days and events, Robert McCulloch Jr.; spectacle production, Howard Dodge; spectacle management, George Perault; and publicity and public relations, David Keller.

Lifer Admits Killing Coed 14 Years Ago

MCALISTER, Okla. (AP)—Jack Ray, 34-year-old lifer and newly confessed killer of a Penn State coed, was pictured today as a campus Casanova with a third grade education.

By his own word, he was twice a murderer, perhaps three times, a car thief and a dope pusher, all within a few short months of a whirlwind crime career that ended 14 years ago.

This is the portrait of a man whose confession is being studied hopefully—if skeptically—by officers in State College Pa., where Rachel Taylor was beaten to death March 28, 1940.

Her bludgeoned and stabbed body, stripped of nearly all clothing, was found six miles from the Penn State campus. Ray said he fetched a letter from her bosom as the prize of his crime.

The letter, according to his confession, was written by his pregnant girl friend, threatening in a fit of anger to expose his dope selling to students.

He said he had nothing against Miss Taylor. The 17-year-old Wildwood, N. J., coed just happened to be a friend of his paramour whose letter detailed his illegal activities under the guise of a college boy selling sweaters. Actually, he told a reporter, he was "pushing" heroin—selling about 150 capsules every three or four weeks for $140 a capsule.

Ray's confession, obtained by Deputy Sheriff Abner Dear after a behind-the-walls tip in the state prison here, said he beat Miss Taylor to death with a .45 pistol—the same one used in an Oklahoma shooting.

He ripped her clothing off until he found the missive that threatened to destroy him hidden in her brassiere.

In Paris Today To Confer With Mendes-France

Italy, West Germany, Benelux Trio Support Substitute For EDC

PARIS (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden pushed on to Paris today to learn whether French Premier Pierre Mendes-France will accept Britain's new plan to enlist German troops in the defense of Western Europe.

The veteran British diplomat was scheduled to see Mendes-France almost immediately after his arrival this afternoon. Their meeting will spell success or failure for Eden's whirlwind tour to sell his substitute for the French-killed European Defense Community.

Won Hopeful Support

Since his departure from London Saturday, Eden has won quick and hopeful support for his plan from the leaders of West Germany, Italy and the Benelux trio—Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

France today remained the only question mark.

As a replacement for EDC's one-uniform, six-nation European Army, the British propose to link a rearmored West Germany and Italy to the Brussels mutual defense pact signed in 1948 by Britain, France and the three Benelux nations.

The expanded alliance presumably would operate under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which has taken over the military phases of the Brussels pact. The big problem appeared to be whether France—whose Parliament voted more than two years ago against admitting Germany into NATO—now would accept such an arrangement.

Seeks Certain Pledges

Some French officials think their Premier will agree to West German membership in NATO if he gets certain pledges from Britain and the United States, as well as from the Germans. With many Frenchmen fearful that an independent West German Army might try to get East Germany back from the Reds by force, Mendes-France reportedly wants promises

Perry Twp. Zoning Proposal Discussed

At a meeting sponsored by Perry township trustees, Assistant County Prosecutor William Brokaw explained to 150 township residents the provisions of a proposed ordinance to establish zoning in a northwest section of the township. The meeting was held in the Memorial Building.

The proposed ordinance will be voted on a special election some time in the future.

However, before the actual ordinance is submitted to the voters members of the township trustees, the township zoning board and the Salem Planning Commission will meet to discuss possible changes or amendments.

Chief objections last night arose when people owning property in a section designated residential wished to have it revised to a business zone.

If passed, the measure would zone the area from the Salem city limits on W. State St. on the north side, extend west to the Salem Country Club driveway, thence north along the Mahoning County line to the west side of the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, then southeast along the right of way to the city limits, then west and then south to the starting point on W. State St.

Kiwanis Club Has Election

Russell Lindsay Talks To Rotarians

COLUMBIANA — Officers elected Monday evening by the Kiwanis Club for 1955 will be installed the first of the year. Elected were: Rev. H. J. Scheidemantle, president; Dr. George Myers, vice president; Gordon Warner, George Barr and Jack Fullerton, new members of the board of directors.

The peanut booth during the fair, for the underprivileged children fund was a big success, booth chairman William B. Arn announced.

Dale Miller of Lisbon, lieutenant governor of the 15th division of Ohio Kiwanis, spoke on the main objectives of Kiwanis, loyalty faith and service.

Visiting Kiwanians were C. D. Brittain and Lloyd Lang, of East Palestine. The board of directors was in session after the meeting.

RUSSELL LINDSAY gave a talk on the origin of Dixieland music in connection with the observance of ladies' night at the meeting of the Rotary Club, Monday evening.

This music has been the outgrowth of Negro and Creole folk songs, Mr. Lindsay said, having spread to the North in 1910 from its origin in New Orleans. He illustrated his talk with a number of records, of which he is a collector.

Don Leonard, chairman of the social committee, arranged the program. Ninety were in attendance. Visiting Rotarians were W. H. Matthews and Lester Burton, of Salem.

The meeting next Monday evening will be in charge of Larry Anderson, chairman of the vocational service committee.

The final tournament of the season is scheduled for next Sunday at Valley Golf Club. Fifty-eight of the 170 members of the club are entered in the tournament, which is for members only. Entries may be made as late as Saturday.

LADIES' AUXILIARY of Firestone American Legion Post has increased to 35 the number of new members to be initiated at its meeting this evening.

The Columbiana Mothers' Club will hold its first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Elmer Detwiler, Jr., of 49 West St., north, at 8:30 p.m. next Monday.

Miss Connie Griffin, troop leader, will be the speaker on a Girl Scout program, Mrs. William Stamets, Jr., will be co-hostess.

Members of the Dorcas class are to take their tax stamps to a coverdish dinner at Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church at noon tomorrow, along with covereddishes and table service.

Free chest examinations by the mobile X-ray unit of the Columbiana County Public Health League showed this year a considerable increase over 1952, the last preceding year.

Bell Rates Lower Than Average, Claim

Ohio Bell telephone rates are substantially lower than the Bell System average and adjustments sought in the present application would still leave the company's total post-war revenue increases below the national Bell average of increases, the company said today in a brief filed with the Public Utilities Commission.

Since World War II the Bell System companies have received increases in revenues averaging 30 per cent, while Ohio Bell rates have been upped 22 per cent, the summary pointed out. The current case would bring the Ohio Bell figure to 28 per cent.

Last year, the company said, Ohio Bell's total revenue per telephone was $89.54, compared to $102.65 for the 11 other Bell companies used in the case for comparison purposes. If Ohio Bell's revenues per telephone are lower, it means that its rates are, on the whole, lower, company officials said.

The company brief revealed that, even though $30,000,000 has been added to the value of its plant since the July 1, 1953 "date certain" in the case, Ohio Bell earnings declined during the first half of 1954. Also, it pointed out, a new contract with the CWA union recently added $1,900,000 to the Company's annual wage and salary expense.

Testimony in the case was concluded in August. Following the filing of briefs, oral arguments are scheduled to be heard by the PUC in the fall.

WASHER and DRYER

Here's why Whirlpool is the star of them all

WASHER FEATURES

EXCLUSIVE Suds Miser

See how Suds-Miser stores hot, sudsy water for re-use on as many loads as you wish. Saves over one half on cost of soap, water, fuel.

EXCLUSIVE Seven Rinses

Seven scientifically thorough rinses wash each garment and float away every trace of suds and soil. Clothes wash brighter, iron whiter, last longer.

Agiflow Action

Ideal for all the modern fabrics! Whirlpool's perma-smooth agitator works so efficiently, yet so gently, it gives up and gets out—all the dirt—all the time.

Germicidal Lamp

Floods clothes with sanitizing "sunshine" while they're Whirlpool washed.

DRYER FEATURES

EXCLUSIVE ThermaFlow Action

Provides the gentlest, "dryingest" breeze known. Protects your clothes as it dries with billows of warm air... dries clothes evenly, completely, wrinkle-free.

Satin-Smooth Drum

You can safely trust Whirlpool with your finest clothes. The gentle touch of the Satin Smooth Drum treats them with "kid-glove care"... tumbles each garment through billows of protective tempered heat.

Selective Temperature

A turn of the dial gives you the correct heat for every type of fabric. Results are wonderful... "sprinkle-damp" for effortless ironing, or "desert-dry" for ready storing.

Automatic Ignition (on Gas Models)

Just a flick of the switch and you dial the sun for perfect drying for every fabric.

Greatest Spy

By RELMAN MORIN
For Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (U)—One of those quiet-spoken intelligence agents came in the other day to ask me some questions about an old friend. Ever hear the name, Richard Sorge?

Richard Sorge was a spy, a Communist spy, a true genius in that desperate trade.

For my money, he was the greatest of them all, a man who made Mata Hari look like a little girl playing cops-and-robbers. He got his hands on two of the most vital pieces of information in the history of our time, and succeeded in transmitting them to the Kremlin.

One was Hitler's intention to tear up the non-aggression treaty with Russia and launch his attack in June, 1940. Sorge had the correct date and some of the troop dispositions.

The other was Japan's timetable. He seems to have had advance information about Pearl Harbor.

He had previously organized, and was directing, an espionage network operating all through the Far East. It may still be operating there and here. Some U. S. top intelligence people fear so.

Through his agents, many of them in very high places, Sorge reached into every chancellery from Japan to Java. He knew some of the deepest secrets of the great power.

Nobody ever served the Reds better—even against his own country. Richard Sorge was a German.

I knew him in Tokyo as a fellow correspondent. That was merely part of his "cover," of course, although he actually worked at the job. He never let on the extent of his information, but he must have had many a lusty laugh at the rest of us.

He made a wonderful companion, gay, amusing, a fascinating talker. He liked food, liquor, late hours and the ladies. In fact, the story is that it was a girl who brought him to destruction, but I am not too sure about that.

He had a perfect facade for his job.

As a newspaperman, and a very presentable one, he had entrée everywhere. As a German, he was highly persona grata with Japanese officials.

More important, he had become a pet of the German Embassy. In part, this was because of his brilliant record in World War I. He came through covered with medals, and the old German army was something less than lavish with them. He became a close confidante of the German ambassador in Tokyo—so much so that when World War II started, the ambassador made him the Embassy press officer!

In that post, he had access to the Nazis' top secrets.

He was equally well fixed for getting information about Japan.

One of his lieutenants had been the private secretary to the Prime Minister.

To get his information to Moscow, Sorge used all the tricks, the microfilm messages in cigarettes, etc. After the war started, he began transmitting over a portable radio.

Japan's secret police—the dreaded "Kempeitai"—knew a spy was operating somewhere in the country. But evidently Richard Sorge, correspondent and war hero, was the last man they suspected.

Then the break came.

After Pearl Harbor, Sorge requested a transfer. He told the Kremlin his usefulness in Japan was ended. Apparently, he never got an answer. Why, nobody knows.

While he was waiting for it, according to the story, one of his friends gave him away in a fit of jealousy. He was arrested and executed.

So went a brilliant, if twisted, man. He once told me he felt, deeply, that "something" was needed to break the recurring cycle of war in western Europe.

He didn't say what it was. Apparently, he thought communism was the answer.

I wonder whether he would still think so.

An increasing number of shopping center operators favor more than one department or grocery store in a shopping center because the added store attracts more buyers by offering a chance for bargain-hunting.

Nail Trouble May Be From Other Ailments

Readers have recently written complaining of white streaks on the sides of their fingernails, of a large white space in the nails, of splitting of the nails and a wide variety of other troublesome changes in the nails of the fingers or toes.

This subject is a difficult one to discuss since there are many conditions which affect the finger or toe nails or both and in many cases treatment is relatively unsatisfactory.

For one thing there are a number of conditions most commonly attacking the skin such as psoriasis or ringworm which also involve the nails.

There are several disorders which cause the nails to become

The Course Of True Politics

The impression deepens as the British Laborites headed by Clement Attlee continue their junketing that they will be not only wiser but sadder when they finally return to England.

In Melbourne, Australia, they were greeted with shouts of "Get back to Moscow!" and "Get Back to China." In Melbourne, the Communist conspiracy is not a challenge to political ingenuity, as it is to some of the British socialists; it is a challenge to Australian security and has been countered by participation in the new Southeastern Asia Treaty Organization.

Meanwhile, back home, there is mounting criticisms of these British politician's specialty of so preoccupied with the politician's specialty of making a deal that they have lost sight of the fact no one ever has made a successful deal with any government dominated by Communists.

Moscow, itself, served notice of its feeling about making deals when Pravda snapped at Attlee for having suggested to China's Mao Tse-tung that Mao might use his influence to persuade the Soviet Union to disarm. This revealed that Attlee was taking sides with the United States against the Soviet Union, according to Pravda.

The course of true politics, like the course of true love, "never did run smooth." Attlee and his socialist companions took a calculated risk when they went to Moscow and Peiping to explore the possibilities of embarrassing Sir Winston Churchill and the Conservative party by playing footsie with Communists.

If the net result is to embarrass themselves, the only Britons who would be sorry would be a handful of socialists who, seeing no difference any more between themselves and the anti-capitalists of the Kremlin, are ready for a merger.

No Scapegoats Wanted

A congressional investigation with far-reaching effects is being carried on patiently by the Senate Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency. The investigation's executive director, Richard Cledendene, has revealed in a United States News & World Report interview what it is trying to prove.

The investigators are not looking for scapegoats. They do not believe there is any one-shot cure for juvenile delinquency. They do not hold to the idea that so-called comic books are the source of the trouble, or that TV dramas, movies, or comic strips are solely at fault, either. The investigators are looking for evidence, not scapegoats.

Thus, they reason that everything with a bearing on juvenile outlook has something to do with juvenile delinquency when it occurs. Broadly speaking," replied Cledendene to the question if there's any one great cause for the problem, "juvenile delinquency results from unsatisfactory conditions within the home and the community. By unsatisfactory conditions within the home, I include disturbed family relationships, parental rejection, exaggerated brother or sister rivalry, marital conflict, or any other conditions which subject the child to tense, abnormal relation to members of his family. I also include conditions which deprive a child of normal guidance, care, training and supervision."

All Is Quiet On The Potomac

The close of the McCarthy censure resolution hearings marks the shutdown of Washington as the nation's prime source of government news. For the first time since Congress convened last January, Washington datelines can be expected to grow scarce.

Instead of being brought to a continuous, sharp focus in the capital of the nation, political interest now will be diffused for a few weeks throughout the 48 states, where public figures will be carrying on their customary campaign activities without either the benefit or handicap of the Washington soundboard. There will be a minimum of tumult and shouting while the "captains and kings" build their fences at home and pile wood on the home fires.

There is endless conjecture about the possible effect on the republic of paying attention to Washington at the expense of state and local government. Perhaps the conjecture is endless because it is fruitless.

The attention paid to Washington is not necessarily at the expense of state and local government. In the long run it would be to the benefit of state and local government if it caused more citizens to quit over-rating Washington's importance.

Americans are still up to their ears in the project of learning how to govern themselves — an experiment they now have been conducting intensively for 165 years. At one time, government was overbalanced in favor of the localities and the states. Lately, it has been overbalanced in favor of the federal establishment. Somewhere between these extremes lies the secret of freedom's preservation.

The boss has returned from vacation and everybody is working again.

Risk In Formosa

By DAVID LAWRENCE

American Public Not Prepared For Major War

The American people are not expecting a war over Formosa or the Quemoy Islands — near the mainland of China — because they have never been told that an attack on Formosa is equivalent to an attack on the United States.

Somewhere in the records there's a "perimeter" as being a line from a definition of America's "defense Japan southward to the Philippines, without mention of Formosa. Dean Acheson, as secretary of state, described that line in a speech in January 1950. The Communists immediately assumed that he was excluding Korea, and they moved southward across the 38th Parallel in June of that year.

The present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, has said publicly, and so has President Eisenhower, that the U. S. 7th Fleet would defend Formosa. But all this must nevertheless come as something of a shock to the American people who have not yet been fully advised of just what the relationship is between Formosa and the use of naval forces and air power of the United States.

THE UNITED STATES government, under the present and preceding administrations, has taken the position that it is necessary to stop the advance of the Communists in the Far East.

The Chinese Nationalist government which holds Formosa is the legally recognized Chinese government so far as the United States is concerned, and hence any military action taken in defense of Formosa is the direct result of a constituted government.

Under international law such military intervention is justified because a sovereign government is thereby consenting to the entry of foreign forces to assist in maintaining its position.

But Great Britain and other nations are committed to recognize the Red China government at Peiping are committed to recognize Formosa as really a part of the territory of the Communists, even though the latter do not hold it.

If America, therefore, engages in any military operations in defense of Formosa or the Quemoy Islands, there will be no allies as was the case when Britain and France and other governments joined with the United States in Korea. This was an operation under the auspices of the United Nations.

WHEN THE PROBLEM of assisting the French government in Indochina was under consideration last spring, the United States government made it clear that it would not intervene except with the consent and active military cooperation of the various governments concerned, including Great Britain and some southeast Asian governments.

It was further stated that no U. S. military action would be undertaken except after the President had submitted the matter to Congress.

It is, therefore, contemplated now that military action will be taken by the United States forces in defense of Formosa or the Quemoy Islands or both without submitting the matter to Congress.

Plainly, if Formosa is an integral part of the United States strategic area, there might be a different story to tell. But President Eisenhower at Denver says he is reaffirming certain policies in the Western Pacific and he adds:

"These are, of course, to defend the vital interests of the United States wherever they arise to make better partners of old friends, and to get new friends wherever we can. And, of course, where our vital interests demand it, to support them in their security and in their own interests."

DOES THIS MEAN America will go to war over Formosa? If it does, the American people have not been told that fact explicitly.

Does it mean that American military forces will take such action as may lead toward a larger military involvement? If so, there is no hint that American public opinion is ready for such a crisis.

Unfortunately, the Communists know all this, too. So it's quite possible they may miscalculate and a major crisis may be in the offing, with another retreat possible when the chips are down and the issue arise as to whether to risk a major war in the Far East.

Having drawn away from it in Korea and in Indochina, the likelihood is that America will not become involved in a major war over Formosa either.

Bird's Eye View of Reclamation

By RAYMOND MOLEY

During his stay in Colorado the President enjoyed a personally conducted tour by air over the great area which was the subject of the tremendous but unsuccessful fight in the recent session of Congress to authorize the so-called Upper Basin storage and irrigation project.

The trip, according to the Associated Press, was to get "a bird's eye look at vast reclamation projects."

The President's guides were Secretaries McKay and Benson, and certain unnamed "reclamation officials." No doubt these bureau people, as well as McKay, were anxious to win presidential interest in certain schemes which they have in mind and which Congress seems reluctant to approve.

At any rate, it may be of interest to follow this tour with the mind's eye and to offer a few facts which the President's guides probably failed to give him.

THE TOUR passed over the city of Pueblo, which hopes to get great economic advantages from the Frypaning project which was beaten in the House this summer. But the plane flew over the place in the high Rockies where it is proposed to channel some of the water on the west slope and dump it into the Arkansas on the east slope. This would, according to the Associated Press report, relieve the "drouth plagued" people in Eastern Colorado.

It is unfortunate that there could not have been at the President's side at that moment a lawyer from Granby, Colo., who is undoubtedly the best informed person on irrigation on the west slope, who told me in his office this summer that the contemplated Frypaning project would bestow upon every acre of the eastern slope benefited a subsidy from the Treasury of $1,500.

The land would be worth at most about $250 per acre after irrigation.

Then the travelers passed over the Dinosaur area, in the proposed 1.6 billion dollar Upper Colorado project.

The President should have been told that the Reclamation Bureau made an egregious error in calculating the advantages of a dam in Dinosaur which was not revealed until some nature lovers pointed it out.

HE SHOULD HAVE been told also that the Upper Colorado project included irrigation features which would require subsidies of from $500 to $2,750 per acre.

But the course went on to Capser, Wyo. On the way they should have detoured a short distance to look at the Riverton project of the Reclamation Bureau.

This is one of the most dismal of the many failures of the bureau. It was estimated to cost $6,777,000, and to date it has cost $29,897,000. And despite the continued evidence of failure over a period of 34 years, good money is still going into it.

The plane could easily have flown over the Shoshone project in Wyoming, some parts of which, according to official records, will not be entirely liquidated for 2,235 years.

In a short space of time the travelers could have seen the Milk River project in Montana, 83 per cent of which will be paid off in 15 years.

THEN THERE might be the Bitter Root project, which after nearly 50 years still has two centuries to go before the taxpayers get their money back.

The last stop on the trip was at McCook, Neb. The President said there that he received inspiration "from people who are paying the taxes." I doubt that he got the taxpayers' view from his companions in the plane—unless from Secretary Benson.

If the secretary of agriculture had been asked, he might have told the President that opening new land to irrigation will produce more food than we shall need, according to official estimates, need in our lifetime.

For we shall in the lifetime of most of us be paying subsidies on food that we do not need from land already in cultivation. But the secretary of agriculture could hardly have had the heart to impair the joy of a pleasant afternoon.

THE WAY I not open for the United States to attempt to maintain a balance of power because it is the United States which is the principal objective enemy of the Soviet world. In a word, Dean Acheson's concept fits the year 1947 but not 1954.

In 1948, the Soviet Universal State was moving in the direction of consolidating its power in China and Germany and the United States was building a coalition in Western Europe which became NATO and sought to build a European Defense Community by treaty.

The United States has been defeated in these efforts, principally by Great Britain and France and by its own military failure in Korea.

LET US NOW analyze the ways that are open to this country. To take the initiative for war is of fensive to American public opinion and although the president can by-pass the constitutional authority of Congress, as President Truman did in the Korean War, it is doubtful whether President Eisenhower would do anything of the sort. Therefore, the method of retaliation is really the first one open to this country.

But the method of retaliation requires a fixed policy, a demarcation on a map of the American sphere of authority beyond which the Soviet Universal State may not move a toe without the peril of retaliation.

The United States has no such fixed policy. Is it the river Elbe in Europe? Is it the 17th Parallel in Indochina? Is it the 38th Parallel

Four ways are open to the United States:

1. To accept the initiative for war on the assumption that the country that strikes first will have the greatest advantage;

2. To wait until we are hit and then retaliate in full force;

3. A continuation of conferences with the object of delaying a shooting war as long as possible in the hope that something will happen—anything will happen—which will so weaken the Soviet Universal State that the necessity for war will have passed its historic moment;

4. Total isolation without any attempt at meeting the pressing international problems.

DEAN ACHESON adds to these a fifth possibility, namely, the maintenance of a balance of power. These are his words:

"So it became increasingly plain as our third postwar debate on foreign policy in half a century went on that the United States was, and must remain, in and of the world, and that coexistence of the victors and the maintenance of peace demanded the recreation of a balancing power to the power of the Soviet system."

The historic error in the Acheson thesis is that he disregards the fact that the United States is the target for destruction by the Soviet Universal State.

Great Britain can attempt to maintain the balance of power because it stands between the United States and Soviet Russia. As a matter of fact, Great Britain has accepted the role and thus has, in reality, become a neutral power which was fully evident at Geneva. Great Britain is assumed by Nationalist China to have prevented Formosa, the Republic of Korea and Japan from being invited to attend the Manila Conference where they rightly belonged.

'The Old Ambish And Tom'

(With apologies to James Whitcomb Riley while meditating on Governor Dewey's retirement and rumors he may wind up as Secretary of State.)

Never was nothing about Owosso, Michigan.

That distinguished Tom; Neighbors all used to wonder why The Old Ambish was so wrapped up in him;

But when city folks writ back That Tom was goin' like a ball o' fire Givin' grand opry a serious crack,

Singing Sundays in a big city choir An' studyin' law (just in case)— They figgered he might do purty well

If he could jes' stand the pace, An' they said "Tell Tom goodbye— 'n' take keer of hisself!"

II

Fust thing the folks back home heard Tom had brushed off the opry whim An' had took a job in the D.A.'s office— With the Old Ambish all wrapped up in him!

He had landed in the right spot at the right time Smack in the middle of Gotham's war on crime!

Folks was gittin' bumped off left and right And Tom jes' leaped into the free-for-all fight

Like he was fightin' Injuns wth General Custer . . .

Fust thing you knew he was "Mister Crime Buster!"

An' readin' the headlines every day The Old Ambish would say, "Well, nice goin', Tom, Take keer yesself."

III

Tuk the papers, the homefolks did, A-readin' about Tom

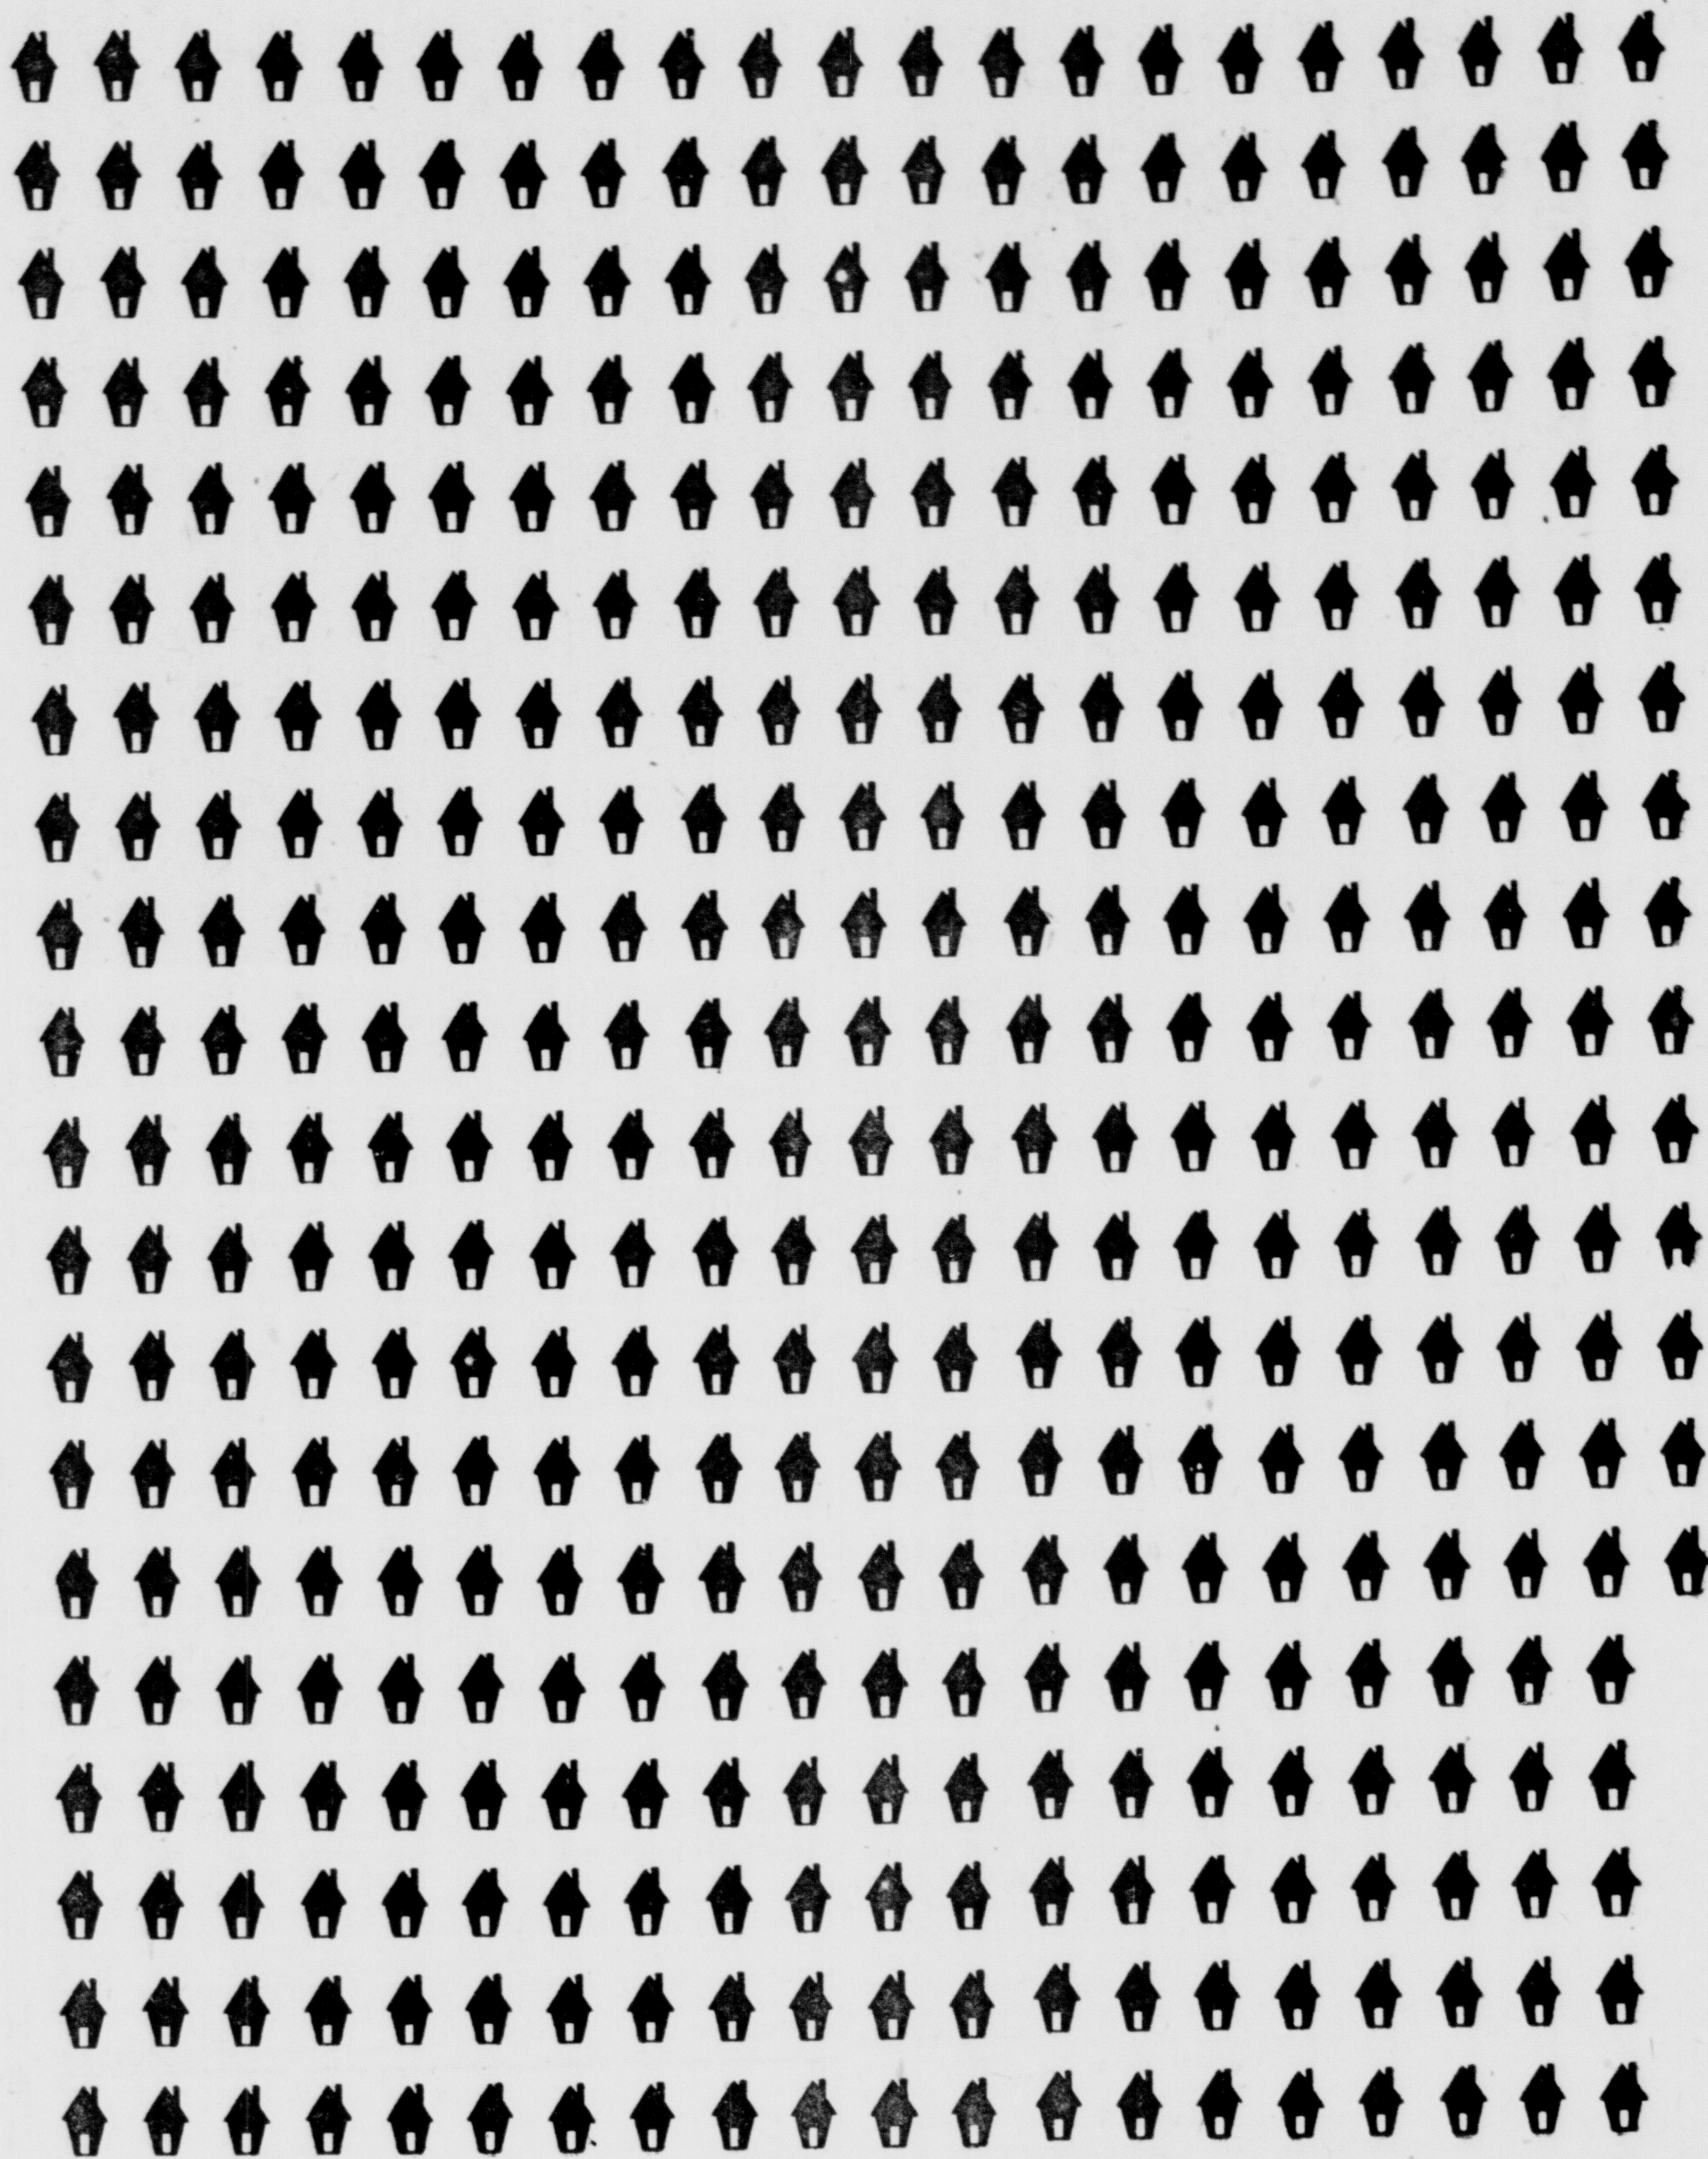

Landing in the guv'nor's chair Healthy an' safe from any harm; Read how he'd set his sights on the White House—

The Old Ambish all wrapped up in him! How he'd run for it twice,

Missin' the second time by anose, And keepin' the GOP on its toes, Goin' back as guv'nor, cool as ice,

Miss Diane Betty Hagadorn Is Wed To Leonard E. Durbin

Afternoon nuptials uniting Miss Diane Betty Hagadorn, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Hagadorn of Chautauqua, N.Y., and Leonard Edward Durbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Durbin of Beloit, took place Saturday in Huribut Memorial Community Church in Chautauqua.

The bride's father performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends who filled the church which was beautifully decorated with white gladioli, fern and cathedral candles in seven-branch candelabra. Traditional organ music was played by Mrs. Charles W. Cale. The soloist was Walter Woodbridge of Erie, Pa.

A unique and touching part of the wedding occurred when the bride and bridegroom knelt at the altar at the close of the service and sang together their commitment prayer.

The matron of honor was the sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Lovella DiLoreto, of Damascus. She was gowned in peacock blue with contrasting floral headband. Bridesmaids were Misses Patricia Bortou and Jean Miligan of Chautauqua, and Misses Naomi Bruey and Shirley Ann Neits, sorority sisters of the bride from Mt. Union College. They were dressed in yellow and pink with contrasting headbands. They carried heart shaped bouquets of pastel gladioli.

The bridegroom's nephew, Bobbie DiLoreto was ring bearer, and a cousin of the bride, Deborah Barbee of Dunkirk, was flower girl in pink organza with a headband of baby dahlias. She carried a basket of buttonhole dahlias.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin with a queen's lace yoke, a shaped collar, long glove-like sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her veil of imported illusion fell from a coronet of lace etched in pearls. She carried a cross-shaped bouquet of white gladioli.

The best man was Larry Leo Hagadorn, brother of the bride. Two of the groomsmen were fraternity brothers of the bridegroom. Thomas McDonald of Canton and Robert Holstein of Alliance. Eugene and James Durbin, brothers of the bridegroom, and Phillip and Charles Hagadorn, brothers of the bride, were the other ushers.

The bride's mother chose a pink gown with midnight blue accessories and wore a yellow glamelia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a white glamelia corsage on her gown of grey silk with red accessories.

A reception for 200 guests followed in Truesdale Hall of the Chautauqua Church. The five tier wedding cake was prepared and decorated by the bridegroom's mother.

The bride chose a gray suit with red accessories of velvet for travel. She had a red glamelia corsage.

Following a wedding trip through the Finger Lake region, the couple will be at home in North Industry, Canton, where Mr. Durbin is the pastor of the North Industry Methodist Church. They will continue their studies this fall at Mt. Union College in Alliance where they both are seniors. He is a member of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and she belongs to Alpha Chi Omega. Both have been active in the Mt. Union Singers, the Headland Club and the Christian Foundation.

Among the many out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Durbin and Eugene and James Durbin of Beloit, Mr. and Mrs. Peter DiLoreto of Damascus, Rev. and Mrs. E. K. Bars of Mansfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Morlan Hole, Damascus.

Salem Garden Clubs To Enter Exhibits

"Fun for Fall" will be the theme of the Garden Forum of the Youngstown area for Wednesday, Oct. 13, in the Butler Art Gallery in Youngstown. Both the Garden Study Club and the Salem Garden Club are affiliated with the Forum and members from here expect to enter exhibits in the theme classifications.

Class I is entitled "Hit the Road," with arrangements featuring roadside material; class II, "Lure of the Jungle," with an arrangement featuring foliage only; class III, fruits of harvest, using fruit, flowers and foliage; class IV, Siamese Twins, in companion containers not necessarily the same size.

Under horticulture the members are to take name variety chrysanthemums or dahlia blooms and foliage.

Rev. R. J. Hunter Re-Elected Ministerial Group President

Rev. R. J. Hunter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who was president of the Salem and Vicinity Ministerial Association for 1953-54, was re-elected for another term at the first fall meeting of the ministers Tuesday in the Public Library. Serving as vice presidents will be Rev. Robert Mosher, pastor of Damascus Friends Church, Rev. A. Laten Carter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Harry Barrett of the Church of Our Saviour.

Salem Couple To Celebrate Anniversary

No special celebration is being planned, but Mr. and Mrs. William A. Liebschner, who were married Sept. 20, 1899 in the Mt. Washington Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh, will observe their 55th wedding anniversary at a family party Sunday in their home at 542 Euclid St. Rev. Charles E. McClelland officiated at the wedding.

Mr. Liebschner brought his bride to Salem soon after they were married and they have resided here since. In June, Mr. Liebschner retired from the Salem China Co. where he had been employed for 55 years.

The couple, who are in fair health, have three children, Mrs. P. H. Riddle of Salem; Mrs. R. R. Miller of Youngstown and Dr. William R. Liebschner of Sandusky, and six granddaughters. The entire family will attend the Sunday get-together.

Salem Bird Study Club Goes On Field Trip

A migrant Philadelphia vireo and a goldfinch incubating eggs formed the highlights of the Salem Bird Study Club's field trip to Teegarden Sunday afternoon.

The group of 13, led by Raymond O. Marshall of Letona, also observed migrating bay-breasted and Blackburnian warblers. The Philadelphia vireo seen here two or three times each year, nests in northern Canada. The goldfinch, observers pointed out, nests later than most species. Members of the group predated young robins still being fed by parent birds.

The next meeting of the club will be Friday, Oct. 1, with Ed Ferko of 736 N. Ellsworth Ave., program chairman.

Mrs. William Deming Honored On Birthday

Mrs. William Lloyd Deming was 97 years old Friday and friends and relatives remembered her with gifts, cards and flowers. Other people called at the Deming home on S. Lincoln Ave.

While there was no special celebration, Mrs. Deming enjoyed the visits and remembrances which included personal good wishes from the White House. Cake was served in honor of the occasion.

WIENER ROAST SET

A corn and wiener roast for members of the Presbyterian Forum Class is planned for Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the enclosed pavilion at Centennial Park. Members are to bring their own wieners and buns; other food will be furnished by the committee.

On the nominating committee were Rev. G. D. Keister of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Rev. Harold Winn of the First Friends Church and Rev. Harry Barrett of the Church of Our Saviour.

Rev. Carter of the special services committee reported on the summer services, which proved a modestly successful venture. He said that all the outdoor expenses were adequately met by the offering and that the services filled a need felt by a number of people who otherwise could not attend.

Plans were made for Holy Week, 1955. The report on the evangelism committee was given by Rev. C. Clare Davis, Methodist minister. A possible church attendance campaign was considered and a special evangelistic program discussed.

Rev. David Mair, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, discussed the plan for a library - sponsored group for the discussion of religious subjects. The ministers approved the plan but no definite date was set for meeting.

Representing the association at the monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be Rev. Keister. The next minister's meeting will be Oct. 4 at 9:30 a.m. in the Public Library.

Willards Honored On 27th Anniversary

The 27th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willard of 2nd St. was celebrated Sunday when their 10 daughters, three sons and their wives and husbands, and 10 grandchildren gathered at Centennial park for a picnic dinner.

Games were played and pictures were taken to commemorate the event. Mrs. Shirley Upsell and daughter, Debby, were guests. Among those from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. John Walters and daughter, Becky of North Lima, and Mrs. Betty Marroulis and sons, Teddy and Bobby of Canfield.

Mr. Willard was the eldest present and Bobby Marroulis, three-weeks old, the youngest.

North Georgetown

Mrs. Clara Antram and her grandson Clarence Walter Antram of Minerva have returned home after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Porter of Wiloughby.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wang were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fetters and Mr. and Mrs. John Wang of Salem. Mrs. Geraldine Midkiff and daughter Karen and Harry Wang of Alliance.

Mrs. A. L. Reichenbach accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Denny Lambert of Alliance attended the Snyder reunion at Sebring Sunday.

A.Z.C. Shirley Wang and A.I.C. Louise Collins are home on leave from Selfridge Air Force base in Michigan.

Miss Marilyn and Eileen Bradley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bradley have returned to Springfield to attend Wittenberg College.

DIOR SILHOUETTE, U.S. version . . . Here are the first American adaptations of the controversial flat-chested silhouette introduced by Christian Dior in Paris. At left is a black taffeta afternoon dress with long-torso lines, the skirt flaring below the hipline. Note that the bodice is rounded, not flattened, and the waistline is indented, but not as sharply nipped as previously. At right is the sack jacket suit in pale gray worsted, with side darts achieving the new modified bustline. Both are designed by Andrew Arkin, who modified the Parisian style to American tastes.

Damascus Garden Club Members Win Ribbons

The Damascus Garden Club participated in the Homeworth flower show in group and individual exhibits Saturday.

Members received blue ribbons on "Fourth of July" table setting, "Bridesmaids" table setting, and "Thanksgiving" table setting, and the "After the Hunt" table setting they received the Award of the Show, (red, white and blue ribbon).

Horticultural exhibits were entered by Mrs. Bernard Ostrosky, Miss Daisy Stackhouse and Mrs. N. C. Wilkinson who received blue ribbons.

Individual exhibits entered by Mrs. Harold Brown, Mrs. N. C. Wilkinson and Mrs. R. H. Dankle also received blue ribbons.

Queen Esther Class Has Officer Election

Mrs. L. L. McCluggage is the teacher of the Queen Esther Class of the First Friends Church which elected officers at the picnic meeting Saturday at Centennial Park.

President is Alma Woolford; vice president, Delores Menning; secretary, Helen Gregg, and treasurer, Eileen Holtsinger. Games entertained and plans were outlined for a Halloween party the latter part of October.

CIRCLE SESSION SET

Members of the Esther Butler Missionary Circle of the First Friends Church will be guests on Thursday at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Sylvester Jackson at 392 Jennings Ave.

Phillips Church Class Plans Benefit Festival

Junior Sons and Daughters Class of Phillips Christian Church are planning a benefit festival for Friday evening, starting at 5:30 p.m. at the Fairview School.

Plans for the event will be completed at the meeting Wednesday night. The social meeting of the class is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 25.

Club 18 Has Party At Indermill Home

Club 18 members were guests Saturday at an evening party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Indermill at Washingtonville. Games of cards entertained, and Mrs. Charles Hinchliffe was a prize-winner.

At the next get-together, Sept. 25, Mr. and Mrs. William Tullis will entertain in their home in Washingtonville.

Eastern Stars Meet With Mrs. Aldom

Mrs. W. G. Aldom of S. Lincoln Ave. was hostess Monday night at a dinner meeting of the Past Matrons' Association of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Monday, Oct. 11, the group will be guests in the home of Mrs. Arthur Johnston of Cleveland St.

Areas Beset By Poor Relief Problems To Seek Assistance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Major industrial areas beset by mounting poor relief problems will look to the January Legislature for help.

But about a dozen counties will run out of relief funds before the end of the year and wonder what to do in the face of possible deficits.

Trustees of the Ohio Municipal League, composed of 415 cities and incorporated villages, will meet in Columbus Friday to study the situation.

Allen Pritchard Jr., executive director of the league, said an incomplete survey showed spending on the present basis would bring these year-end county deficits: Franklin $700,000, Cuyahoga 600,000, Hamilton 500,000, Lucas 185,000, Stark 165,000, Mahoning 150,000, Lorain 26,000, Butler 30,000 and Richland 51,000.

Local governments can get more relief money by issuing bonds against delinquent tax collections or notes to be paid from future tax collections.

But officials are reluctant to issue anticipatory notes, Pritchard explained, because their payment would cut into future operating money. And property tax collections generally have been good, making delinquent tax bonds less desirable, he added.

Pritchard said that poor relief situation generally "is not real bad." But he described it as serious in big cities hit by unemployment.

He said the survey showed county poor relief balances of seven million dollars on last June 30 and a million in balances of 44 cities handling relief.

But he said sub-divisions spending their own relief funds plus "matching" contributions from the state must raise local money to get extra help from the state if the state has the money.

Counties, cities and townships get around 11½ million dollars annually for poor relief from utility excise taxes of 1.65 per cent. Some spend it as an individual unit; others combine for a countywide relief operation.

The 1952 Legislature appropriated 8½ millions for each of the last two fiscal years for "matching" up to half of local relief expenditures. But the state ran out of "matching" money in the fiscal year ended last June and made a 1½ million dollar transfer to meet its obligation.

Officials said that at the rate of present expenditures the state faces a similar situation by next June unless the Legislature acts to prevent a recurrence.

Cities running out of relief money, meanwhile, face the prospect of raising funds locally to tide them over the rest of the calendar year. Officials explained that local governments spending all of their excise tax allocations and their state "matching" money must raise funds locally to get additional state aid.

Local governments spent so much for poor relief in 1950 that the 1951 Legislature made a deficiency appropriation of more than three millions to cover its share of additional "matching" money. The state appropriation for that year was 10 millions, a million and a half more than the appropriations for the past two fiscal years.

Sears Plans Preview For Sales Event

In observance of the 68th anniversary of the founding of Sears, Roebuck and Co., the local Sears store at 165 S. Broadway will hold a special sales event from Friday through Monday, Sept. 27.

Sears will open its doors from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday to the public for a gala preview. Gifts will be awarded.

"Our store will join 700 sister stores in the nationwide Sears family in staging this nine-day promotion," L. M. Manieri, Sears local manager, explained.

Preparations for the 1954 Anniversary Sale have been in progress for several months and have included the purchasing of millions of dollars worth of special merchandise by Sears buyers.

The local store actually will commemorate three anniversaries in one during the sale. M. Manieri pointed out. Besides the 68th company birthday, the store will observe the 29th anniversary of the company's entry into the retail field and the 18th anniversary of the coming of Sears to Salem.

Local Sears employees are competing for achievement awards during the event.

Ohio May Set Record For Total Births

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio is well on its way toward setting another record in total births says, Dr. Ralph Dwork, the acting state health director.

He based his prediction on figures compiled by R. A. Klemm, assistant chief of the department's division of vital statistics, who said "resident" births for the first seven months of 1954 total 120,758.

A "resident" birth is one in which the mother is a resident of Ohio and includes births to Ohio women in other states.

Klemm predicts resident births may total 220,000 by the end of the year. This compares with 210,727 for last year, which was the third straight year in which a record was set.

There were 206,779 resident births reported in 1952 and 194,229 the year before. Klemm says his figures cover about 99.4 per cent of all births.

The yearly increase, he believes, reflects Ohio's annual growth in population, because the birth rate has remained steady.

To add extra flavor to cole slaw, mix savory seeds — celery, carrot, or mustard — with the shredded cabbage and dressing.

JAILED BY REDS — Peiping Radio has announced that Hugh Francis Redmond, 34, above, of Yonkers, N. Y., has been sentenced to life imprisonment for alleged activities as a spy in Red China. U. S. officials brand the charge as "fantastic" and say Redmond is a legitimate businessman. It is believed to be the first time that Red China has disclosed the sentencing of any American to a Red Chinese jail term.

Girard, Pa. Man Held On Holdup Charges

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Police are holding a 27-year-old nattily dressed bookkeeper who, they say, has admitted four loan company holdups and has spent part of the loot to buy riding horses.

Det. Insp. Alois Skonieczka identified the man as Gregory Beery, Rd 1, Girard, Pa.

The Lake City Finance and Loan Co. in Erie and neighboring Conneaut, Ohio, has been the victim of the holdups in which a total of $2,082 was taken.

Last night Miss Dolores Krupinski, cashier of the Erie office, spotted Beery walking on an Erie street and identified him as the man who had robbed her office twice, Skonieczka said. Police arrested Beery. Skonieczka said Beery told him money from the first holdup was used to buy three riding horses. Part of the additional loot went for clothes, he added.

Beery was charged with four counts of armed robbery.

Convention Is Opened By Ohio GOP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Republicans today opened their convention with Vice President Nixon as featured speaker. About 1,800 delegates are attending the one-day session.

Last night a 23-member committee headed by Sen. C. Stanley Mechem of Athens worked over the party platform at a closed meeting. The platform will be presented for adoption today.

Nixon's speech between 8 and 9 p. m., EST, will be broadcast by 11 television and 23 radio stations.

His address here starts a series of 13 campaign appearances in various parts of the nation aimed at putting more Republicans in Congress.

Speakers today also will include Sen. John W. Bricker, Republican gubernatorial candidate James A. Rhodes and Rep. George H. Bender of Cleveland, Republican candidate for U. S. Senate.

Fess said the tax forced big truck firms out of the state, shut down some small firms and invited tax retaliation by 15 states against Ohio.

The tax on trucks of more than two axles at the rate of 1¢ to 2½ cents a mile was designed to raise 19½ million dollars annually to build highways.

Rep. Roger Cloud of Logan County said the tax was equitable because it forced truckers to pay for their actual use of highways and enabled private automobiles to avoid extra gasoline taxes.

Fess, Sen. Harry E. Davis and Rep. Roy F. McMahon, both of Cleveland, all pleaded for a firm stand on fair employment practices to prevent racial discrimination among workers.

With Our Servicemen

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stumpo of Woodland Ave., formerly of Leetonia, have received the address of their son, Fred, who recently completed basic training at Parris Island, S.C. While there, the serviceman received a medal for being expert with the rifle. A graduate of Leetonia High School, he will be stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., prior to being sent overseas. His address is: Pvt. Fred Stumpo, "T" Co., 2nd Bn. 2nd Inf., Tra. Regt. M.C.B. Camp Pendleton.

Slayer Of Father Won't Attend Funeral

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Freckle-faced David Larry Ingles, 12, who police said confessed slaying his father, spurned an offer to attend the father's funeral today.

County officials said David will be sent tomorrow to the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus for mental and physical examinations.

Officials were stumped after they said the boy confessed the murder. State law makes no provisions for boys under 16 charged with major crimes.

David is at the juvenile detention home where a matron, Mrs. Clayton Fox, said:

"He sings almost constantly and eats like a lumberjack."

Police said David told them he shot his father, John, 36, last Sunday because "Dad was mean to me and threatened me and mother a thousand times."

Leetonia Earns 'A' Championship; Salem Tool Nips Demings

Titlists Edge Old Timers 7-6; Kline's 2-Hitter Paces Upset

Although they had to score a run in the last half of the final frame to do it, Leetonia won the Class A championship Tuesday evening at Kelley Field by nipping the Old Timers 7-6.

In the only other game played, Salem Tool stepped out to a one-

Richards Quits To Join Orioles

Chisox Manager Moves Into Front Office Job

By JAMES DAILEY
CHICAGO (U) — The Baltimore Orioles finally have squeezed loose from the Chicago White Sox a member of the fabulous Lane-Richards combine.

Sox Manager Paul Richards quit yesterday and accepted terms to be combination general manager-field manager of the Orioles. He was succeeded immediately by Marty Marion, Sox coach and former St. Louis Cardinals and Browns manager.

Sox General Manager Frank Lane and Richards, since teaming up in 1951, have kept the Chicago American League club in almost constant pennant contention. And the Sox, seldom a financial bonanza in the past, have counted more than a million in attendance in each Lane-Richards year.

But the Orioles since their conversion from the St. Louis Browns last winter have appeared determined to lure one or the other of the successful Sox combination for their own.

Last winter the new Baltimore management reportedly offered Lane the equivalent of $100,000 for a five year contract to leave the Sox. The Comiskey family, which owns the Chicago team, was forced, reluctantly since he was under a contract which had two more years to run, to extend Lane's contract another five years and hike his salary to a reported $70,000.

The Comiskies went through the motions of giving Richards a raise if he would stay, but they would not match Baltimore's three-year tenure, which was considered the deciding factor.

Richards is to leave Chicago today for his home in Waxahatchie, Texas, for a short rest before formal signing of papers in Baltimore Sept. 24. He said he had accepted the general manager job but he seemed uncertain about his field duties.

In Baltimore, Oriole President Clarence W. Miles said Richards definitely will direct the Orioles in the field, replacing current Manager Jimmy Dykes.

Marion will finish out the season at the helm of the Sox and sign a one-year contract to manage them in 1955.

game bulge in their Double-A championship series with Demings by upsetting the Pumpers 4-2.

Tonight, with only one crown yet to be won, there is but one game scheduled. Demings and Tool will clash at 8 p.m.

Leetonia 7, Old Timers 6

The regular season titlists also, Leetonia thus joined Georgetown in one of the city's three softball championship circles.

Although the Old Timers moved out to a 4-1 lead early in the game, the winners came back to knot the count and then took a 6-4 edge going into the final inning. However, the Old Timers rallied to tie the score at 6-all in the top of the seventh.

In the last of the seventh, Gene Weikart walked and Bob Candie won the championship with a booming triple to score Weikart with the deciding tally.

Don Warner homered for Leetonia's first tally, while Mike Gallo came up with a three-run round-tripper in the third to tie the score at that point of the game.

Dick Tolson had three hits for the Old Timers while Henry Miller, the losing hurler, slammed a pair of triples. Miller gave up only 5 hits in taking the defeat.

Salem Tool, Demings 2
Emerging as the pitching star of the playoffs, Leo Kline came up with another superlative performance last night, limiting the hard-hitting regular season champions to only two hits to take the win.

Kline's performance was even better in the light of shoddy support received from his teammates, who committed 5 errors. Three of the misplays accounted for one run in the fourth inning while Dick Boughton homered for Demings' second tally in the sixth. Dick Wyss collected the only other safety off Kline, a scratch infield single in the first.

Tool tallied twice in the second on a walk to Kline and hits by Jay England and Joe Kozar. The other two markers came home in the third with two on and two out when Benny Roelen scratched a hit and Kline reached on an error.

Tom Cope took batting honors for the game, blasting out three hits.

Amos Alonzo Stagg KO'd In Grid Drill

STOCKTON, Calif. (U) — Amos Alonzo Stagg, hardy 92-year-old dean of American football coaches, was knocked out in a practice session at Stockton College Monday—but was on his feet and bounding about before doctors and an ambulance reached the field.

Stagg said he was not hurt although he was unconscious five minutes after a charging center bowled him over.

"You don't have to worry about me," Stagg told players and coaches as he opened his eyes. "I know how to take care of myself."

Then he drilled the squad another 90 minutes.

CANDIDATE FOR CENTER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U) — Ken Vargo, 192-pound junior, seems the most likely candidate for center when Ohio State opens its 1954 football season here Sept. 25 against Indiana. The Martins Ferry lad was in action 323 minutes last season, and has been impressive in recent drills.

WORLD SERIES TICKETS

Prices for World Series reserved seat tickets in the Cleveland Indians stadium are $21 per set (3 games), plus a $1 handling charge. For two sets of tickets, the maximum order, the price would be $43.

New York Hangs On To Defeat Milwaukee 2-1; Yankees Win

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

As the National League pennant chase rushed to a climax, it became more and more evident today that the three-game Brooklyn-New York series next week would decide the winner.

Milwaukee, for all intents and purposes, is out of the running. The Giants took care of that little item last night with a 2-1 victory over the Braves. With 12 games to play, the Braves are five and a half back, a virtually insurmountable margin.

The Giants still lead the Brooks by three and a half games. Either, of course, could collapse before next Monday when the set gets under way in Ebbets Field, but at the rate the two have been going, that's hardly likely.

If the Braves win the next two from the Giants, they could help the Brook cause. From there on, the Giants play six games in a row with one club — the Phillies. Brooklyn kept in the race last night with a 4-0 triumph over the Cincinnati Redlegs behind the fine pitching of Johnny Podres. In "mean nothing" National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Phillies, 5-2, and the Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates split a doubleheader. The Cubs won the first, 9-2 and the Pirates the nightcap, 4-0.

In the American League, where it's all over but the shouting, the magic number for the Cleveland Indians became "2" when they turned back Washington, 4-2. Any combination of two Cleveland victories or two losses by the New York Yankees and the Indians are the new league champions.

The Yanks, meanwhile, continued to play it out by crushing Detroit, 11-0. Baltimore beat Boston, 3-1, and Philadelphia shut out Chicago, 1-0, in other American League action.

The Giants had their troubles whipping the Braves, who had a 1-0 lead going into the seventh inning. Don Mueller started with a single. Dusty Rhodes walked and both advanced on a wild pitch. Willie Mays was passed intentionally to load the bases.

That was all for Gene Conley, who had been pitching well. Chet Nichols replaced Conley and on his first pitch, Bobby Hofman, pinch hitting for Henry Thompson singled Mueller home. Rhodes, who singled with Brave shortstop Johnny Logan on the basepath, was out at the plate.

Sal Maglie started for the Giants and was replaced by Hoyt Wilhelm in the eighth. The reliever got credit for the triumph. Podres tossed a three-hitter at the Redlegs to lead the Brooks to their sixth straight victory. The Brooks collected nine hits including

Vic Janowicz Inks Grid Pact With Redskins

WASHINGTON (U) — Vic Janowicz, one of the best football players ever to come out of Ohio State, signed with the Washington Redskins today and presumably said goodbye to major league baseball.

Janowicz would not say it in so many words, but you got the idea he was through with baseball after serving two years with the last place Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League. Playing third base and catching, Janowicz batted .151 this season.

"I feel pretty good," Janowicz said after signing his contract with the professional football team. "I'm a little underweight, but I'm in good physical condition and it shouldn't take me too long to get ready."

He said he weighs 180, about 6 pounds under his best football weight. Joe Kuharich, the new Redskin coach, said he was undecided where he would spot Janowicz but "He'll be in there playing—you can bet on that."

Louisville, Indianapolis Win In AA

By The Associated Press

Louisville and champion Indianapolis were in the lead in their respective American Association Shaughnessy Playoffs today after victories last night.

In opening games, Louisville defeated Columbus, 5-0, and Indianapolis beat the Minneapolis Millers, 4-2.

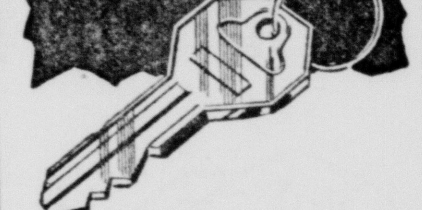

The Indians, as they have done 44 times during the regular season, came from behind to nip the Millers. They tied it up at 2-2 in the seventh, then went ahead in the eighth.

Louisville scored all its runs in the eighth inning on four hits combined with three Columbus errors, a hit batsman and a wild pitch. Bill Werle hurled a five hitter for the Colosels.

RACE HORSE INJURED

DELAWARE, Ohio (U) — One of the leading candidates in the $70,000 Little Brown Jug pacing race was injured yesterday and may not start in the Sept. 23 event. Adios Harry injured his hip while in his stall at the Delaware County Fairgrounds. He has a time of 1:58.4 for a mile, fastest of any of the 68 3-year-old pacers still eligible for the Jug.

All fathers of Salem Quaker football players are invited to attend the Booster Club weekly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Memorial Building. President John Pastier announced this morning.

Coach Ben Barrett will be on hand to discuss the outlook for the coming season and evaluate the team's chances as it faces its first game of the season.

Pastier today urged as many members as possible to attend the special kickoff session and take part in the special "Dad's Night."

Meanwhile, Pastier reported that Booster memberships were "moving good." The sales have far exceeded our expectations," he said. Memberships are still available at the Hoppes Tire Shop, Fisher's News Agency and Heddeleston's Pharmacy.

Conneaut Invades Stadium Friday For Opener With Quakers

Trojans Have Good Passer

Visitors Win Preview
Tilt 13-0 Over Geneva

By LOWELL FLEISCHER

"King Football" again puts in an appearance in Salem Friday as the Conneaut Trojans invade Reilly Stadium to meet Coach Ben Barrett's Quakers in the opening game of the 1954 grid season.

In a preview contest last week with Geneva, the Trojans came out on top 13-0. Conneaut has a tough defensive unit and reports are that the Trojans also have a good running backfield. The visitors will probably take to the air considerably, as quarterback Jim Ely is a good passer. Ely is a senior, as are 10 of the 11 Conneaut starters, and weighs 160 pounds.

The Trojan backfield will average about 160, while the line will weigh about 180. The Quakers will average about the same.

Co-captain Lou DiPlaglio leads the backfield at the left halfback slot with Ely calling the signals at quarterback. DiPlaglio weighs about 180. Bill Dobbins, one of the lightest men on the Conneaut squad will go at right half, and Ron Hinkle the only junior on the Trojan starting 11, will be at the fullback position. Dobbins is a senior and weighs 155, while Hinkle weighs 165.

STARTING At the left end position will be Ed Maney, a 180-pound senior. At left tackle for the visitors will be Mark Mattavillo, also a senior and going at 195 pounds, the heaviest man on the Conneaut line. Jerry Whitehill, a 155-pound senior, will be at left guard and Dick Braunn, also a senior and weighing 175 pounds, will be over the ball at center.

Co-captain Chuck Marker at 180 pounds will go at right guard position and Phil Miller, a 175-pound senior will be at right tackle. At right end will be another 180-pound four-year-man, John Risley.

When the Trojans switch to defense there will be only three changes in the lineup. Jim Pataky, a 165-pound junior, will go in at right end, Denny DiPofi will play safety and the line backer will be Jim Dezman. Both Dezman and DiPofi are seniors, with Dezman going at 165 and DiPofi weighing 150, making the Trojan defensive unit a little lighter than their offensive squad.

Elmer Peaspanem is in his second year at the helm of the Trojans and is looking forward to a good season. Last year his charges piled up a record of five wins, three losses and one tie.

About 3,660 fans watched the Quakers dump the Trojans 12-6 in the opening game at Reilly Stadium last season. A large contingent of Conneaut backers are expected down for the opener.

IN ADDITION to working the Quakers on plays and general polishing up before the first game, Coach Barrett has been drilling the boys on fundamentals this week.

Salem looked very good at the start of practices and showed up well in their first two scrimmage sessions. The Girard High Indians downed the Quakers 20-0 last Friday in an under-the-lights scrimmage and gave the SHS coaching staff a better idea of what to drill the boys on this week.

Head Coach Ben Barrett will start his 12th year of coaching at Salem High Friday. In 11 years at Salem, Barrett coached squads have won 66 games, lost 29 and tied three for a .695 average.

Barrett is expected to announce his starting lineup for Friday's game tomorrow.

Charles 1-5 Underdog To Marciano In Tonight's New York Fight

Cleveland Clips Washington 4-2

Feller May Get Second Try To Win In Series

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Feller may very well get the opportunity to win the World Series game he wants so badly to embellish one of the most successful pitching careers in baseball.

His Cleveland Indian teammates are certainly doing their part to help, having won their 105th game last night with a 4-2 victory over Washington's Senators.

And Cleveland Manager Al Lopez, while not exactly saying he would use Feller in a series game, did anything but say no.

"Bob has just as good a chance as any pitcher on the staff to get a starting shot," Lopez in response to a question by a reporter. "He's been just as important as any man in this ball club."

Feller, now a veteran who will be 36 years old in November, joined the Indians at the age of 17 as a fuzzy-cheeked Iowa farm boy. His fireball has cooled off over the years, but he has developed "stuff" to replace it. His 12-3 record so far this year gives him a lifetime total of 261 victories for Cleveland.

Cleveland's victory yesterday, with the second place Yanks winning 11-0 in Detroit, kept the Tribe 8½ games out in front. The so-called magic number is now "two" meaning that any combination of Cleveland victories and New York defeats, adding up to two, mathematically clinches the flag for the Indians.

It was Cleveland's seventh straight victory and marked a final 18-4 season record over the Senators.

It was also Mike Garcia's 18th victory as he strives to reach Bob Lemon and Early Wynn in the 20-game class. He was relieved for the last inning and a third by Hal Newhouse and Ray Narleski.

The Indians scored all their runs in the first inning off lefty Chuck Stobbs, but young Camilo Pascual held the Tribe to one hit in the last seven innings, fanning eight and retiring the last 17 men in order.

The big inning went like this: Al Smith doubled. Bob Avila walked and Wally Westlake singled in Smith. A double by Hank Majeski scored Avila. Dave Pope's fly drove in Westlake, and Majeski came home on George Strickland's single.

Washington's runs were in the fourth inning. Eddie Yost singled and Pete Runnels doubled. Yost scored on Mickey Vernon's ground out, and Jim Busby's grounder scored Runnels.

Jim Dyck, who had been on option to Richmond, returned to the wigwam last night and may spell someone in the outfield next week.

PITCHING — Johnny Podres, Brooklyn Dodgers, limited Cincinnati to three hits as the Dodgers blanked the Redlegs, 4-0.

BATTING — Bob Cerv, New York Yankees, collected two home runs and batted in five runs as the Yankees shutout Detroit, 11-0.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's collegiate football schedule, which gathers a full head of steam with Saturday's 10-game slate, covers the country from coast to coast and Canada to the Gulf.

The Buckeye realm's representatives have 192 games on tap and 97 of the contests, or more than half, are against out-of-state opposition.

Invaders from 17 other states, including such border spots as California, New York, Wisconsin and Mississippi, will move into Ohio for 54 games. The Ohioans travel to 13 other states for 43 games. The overall slate calls for the Buckeye boys to pit their talents against those of players from 21 other states.

Of the 192 contests, launched last week as Youngstown dumped Gustavus Adolphus of Minnesota by 13 to 0, a total of 60 will be played under the flood lights, and three will be played on Sunday. Xavier's Musketeers will be a party to each of the Sunday games.

The slate also lists 7 Western Conference games for Ohio State, 44

Ezzard Seeks To Regain Title For Third Time

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Determined Ezzard Charles gets a second crack at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in Yankee Stadium tonight and the odds are 1-5 that he'll get whipped again.

The 33-year old ex-champion from Cincinnati went the full 15 rounds with the powerful Brockton blaster last June 17 but the return figures to be a short and explosive battle.

Most of the experts feel that Charles will have to shoot the works quickly in the hopes of stopping the ever-pressing champion and that, instead of scoring, he will be chopped down by Marciano's savage swings. The pick here is Rocky by a knockout within eight rounds.

The betting is 5-12 that the 30-year old champion will stop the perennial challenger and wreck his unprecedented third bid to become the first ex-king to regain the heavyweight throne. You can get 6 to 1 if you think Charles will stop Marciano.

They'll start swinging at 10:30 p. m., EDT before some 46,000 fans. Promoter Jim Norris, encouraged by a brisk ticket sale yesterday and by a favorable forecast of "fair and partly cloudy at the worst," still hopes to do $525,000 and upwards at the gate. The last one lured 47,585 of the faithful and grossed $543,092. If the fight is postponed by rain, it will be held Thursday.

Coast to coast closed circuit television to a record 70 theaters in 50 cities may add another $200,000 to the gate. There will be no home television. CBS will radio broadcast the fight across the nation.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By R. I. Lide

Squirrel season opened today at daybreak and hunters took to the woods in pursuit of the "bushy tails" all over the county.

No doubt the usual number of complaints will be coming in because some hunters fail to get permission of the land owners before entering upon the premises. Permission to hunt is a prerequisite, according to law and any hunter who failed to obtain permission to hunt does so at his own jeopardy.

The State of Ohio owns 27 public hunting areas where it is not necessary to obtain permission to hunt. In Columbiana we have the Beaver Creek Forest area that is opened to public hunting and posted with signs indicating public hunting. At nearby Brush Creek area hunters may hunt without permission which is also indicated by public hunting signs.

There are squirrels in both these areas but it is up to the individual to orient himself with the surroundings and find the likely spots and hunt at ease. Hunters are encouraged to hunt these areas because there has been enough research work made in advance to have a good idea about the wildlife crop that needs harvesting.

Success or failure during the hunt is entirely up to the individual and the hunter that has the instinct of being "game wise" usually gets the bag limit.

RAY BOWMAN, a farmer and ex-paratrooper of World War II, reports a pair of barn owls that raised a pair of young in his barn loft.

These owls are commonly called "monkey-faced owls" as they have a monkey-like appearance. Light in color, their face is in the shape of a great white heat. According to a British ornithologist, a family of 7 young owls, requires over 100 rats and mice daily to be well fed. Barn owls are probably the most useful of all birds as enemies of rats, mice and other small vermin.

CHECKING the hunting and fishing license stubs at the E. J. Cox store in Millport, I could not help but inquire about the building which he states he has operated as a grocery business for the past 30 years. I was told the building was erected in 1849 and was formerly used as a depot for the old C. I. P. Railroad. It has all the appearances of the days of "49" and remains as it was built without any modern touch. He produced some picture postcards dated in 1912 showing the railroad tracks and an old type locomotive alongside the building. The men wore bears and derbies and the women long skirts with mutton-leg sleeve shirtwaists.

News of the World in Pictures

THIS EXCELLENT off-guard picture of President Eisenhower shows him sampling an apple on a visit to Grand Junction, Colo., as part of an inspection of dams in a four-state area.

UNITED STATES TROOPS march in with the flag as they take over responsibility for the international first district in Vienna from the Russians. Jurisdiction over the district changes monthly. This time the Soviets, mindful of the influx of tourists, put on a big show. The big star bearing portraits of Lenin and Stalin was specially re-painted for occasion.

OLD TIME movie star Gloria Swanson attends the 15th annual Venice film festival with her host, Earl Blackwell.

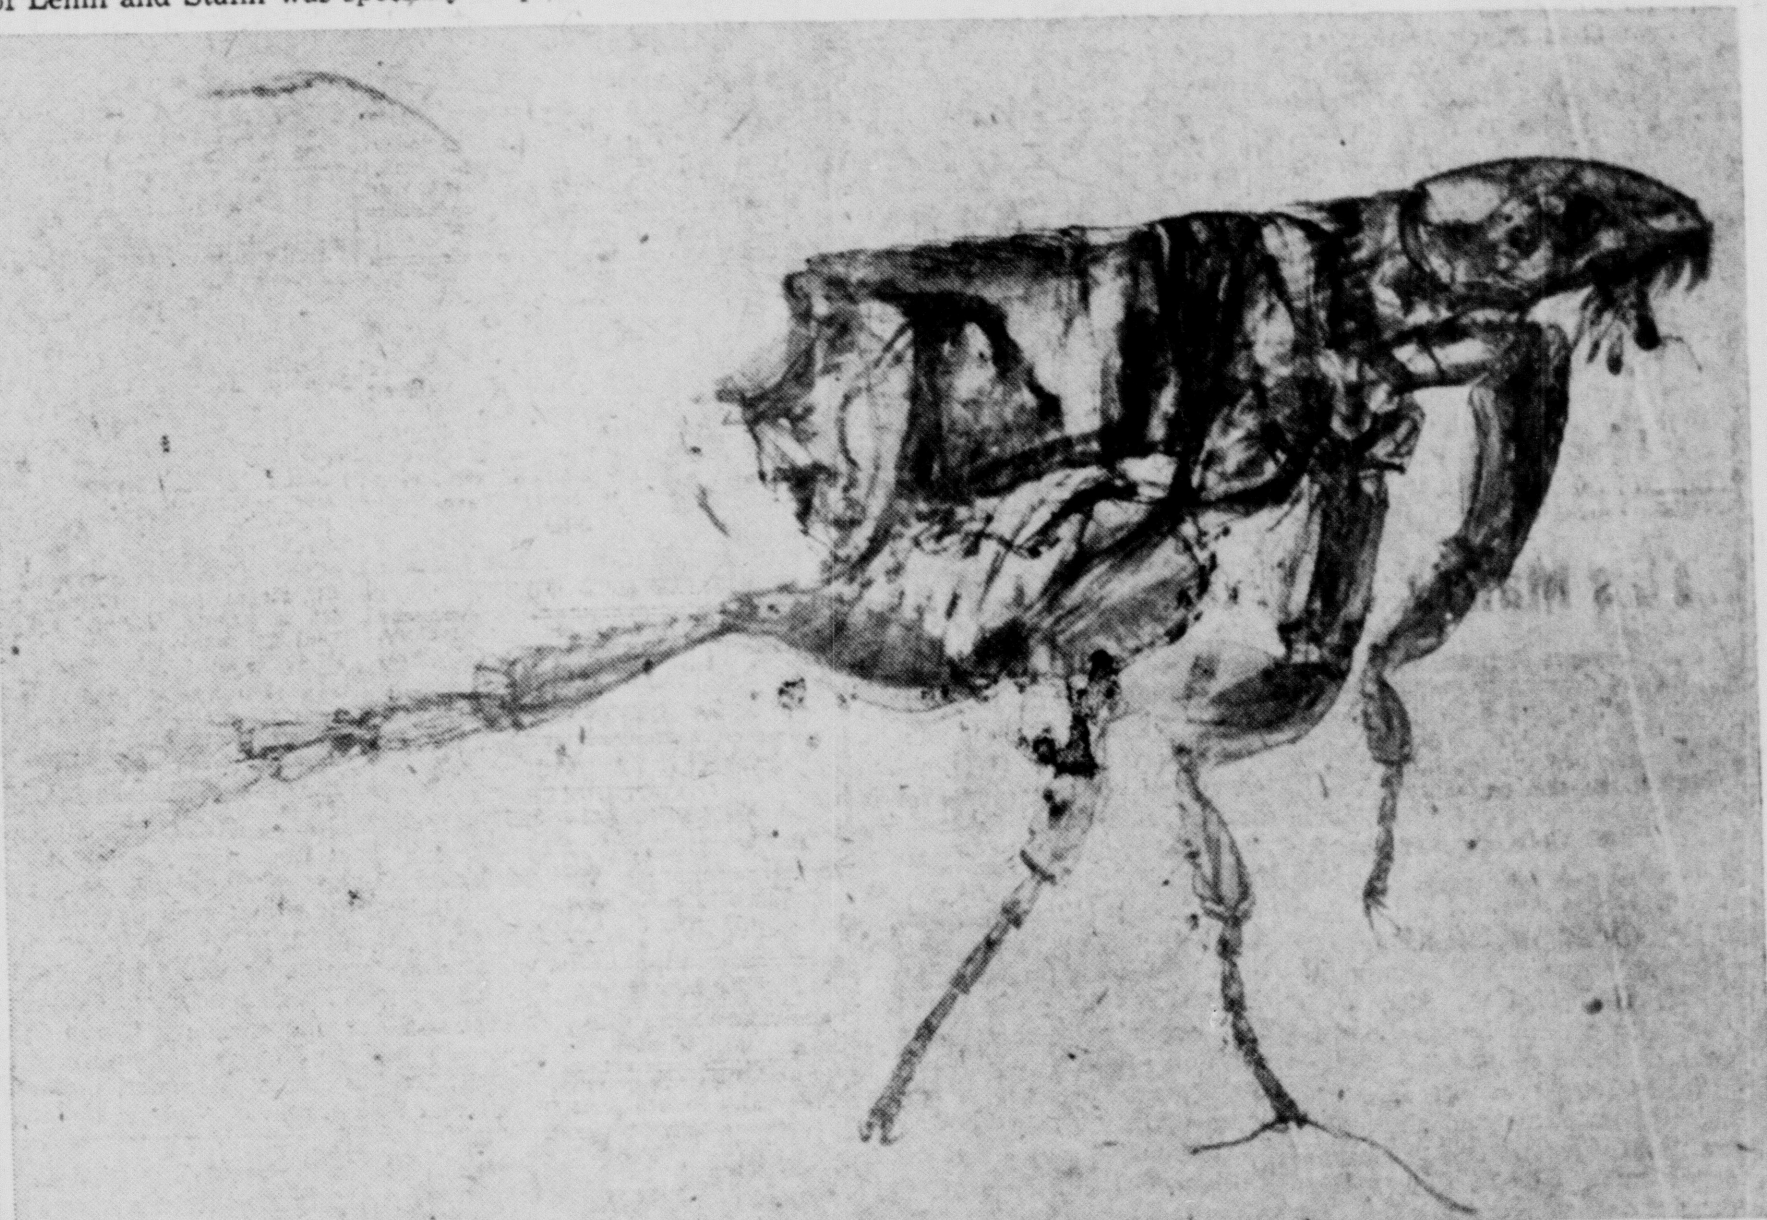

Annie and Lofty autograph programs for youngsters on bus.

SHE MAKES A HIT

TO GROWNUPS, the name of Annie Oakley recalls the exploits of a quick-shooting cowgirl of the old west, but just ask any youngster who she is and he'll shout that she's "on television." Annie (Gail Davis) recently appeared in person with her sidekick sheriff Lofty Craig (Brad Johnson) at a day hosted by TV Guide magazine at Chippewa Lake park near Medina, O., and some 19,000 fans turned out to greet the pair. Included in the crowd were children from county welfare homes. Besides besieging Annie and the sheriff for autographs, the small fry enjoyed a closeup look at their favorites at the show.

NO WONDER YOUR DOG scratches himself so hard. The beastly creature shown here is the cause of it all—the common dog flea as seen through a new X-ray microscope at General Electric's plant in Schenectady, N. Y. Visible are segmented underparts, muscle fibers (dark vertical bands in center of back) and hook-like claws. Device is first in United States.

The huge crowd had to be roped off when Annie and Lofty put on first of their three special performances for the kids.

THIS unusual cocktail gown by Paris designer Mad Carpentier features a jacket tied at the neckline with a velvet bow and molded at waist.

UNLESS YOU HAVE a strong back and steady nerves, this stunt isn't for you. The pyramid on motorcycles was formed by West Berlin police in preparation for their annual show.

CHARGE IS DISMISSED

CHICAGO, (AP) — Judge Oscar Caplan dismissed disorderly conduct charges against Gus Scopus, 51, who spilled hot grease on a customer during an argument. But he fined the customer, Kenneth Carpenter, $2, $25 for disorderly conduct after Scopus complained yesterday.

Boosters At Goshen Union Name Officers

Officers were elected when Goshen Union High School Booster Club met in initial fall session Monday evening in the schoolhouse.

Lee Galbreath was named president; Paul Stallsmith, vice president; Mrs. Fred Jose, secretary; James Armstrong, treasurer, and Allen Walter and Robert Ruggles, directors for three-year terms. Retiring directors who served three years are Ellis Steer and Edward Stratton.

The retiring president, Robert Ruggles, introduced the Football Coach, Herbert Gorbey, who in turn introduced the team. He gave a short talk.

C. G. Long, superintendent of Goshen Township Schools, presented Clinton Heacock former teacher in Sebring High School, who gave a talk.

Mr. Long announced that the new basketball floor will be ready for use in a couple of weeks. A discussion was held concerning the preparation of the football field.

3 Fined By Mayor

Three persons were fined a total of $55 and costs yesterday by Mayor Dean B. Cranmer.

Franklin Underhill, 44, of E. State St., was fined $10 for intoxication and $25 for resisting arrest after police were called to the Ohio Grill, 616 E. State St., where police said he had been creating a disturbance.

Howard G. Wright, 32, of Alliance paid a fine of $15 after he pleaded guilty to turning without giving a signal and Charles W. Messenger, 20, of Prospect St. Ext. was assessed $5 for failure to obey a traffic light.

Debate To Be Held On Red China Problem

Attorney Bryce Kendall will take part in a panel discussion on "Should Red China be Admitted to United Nations Membership" at the luncheon meeting Thursday at the Lisbon Kiwanis Club at Eagles Lodge Hall.

Kendall will present the "pro" side and William Hailey of Lisbon, will be against the proposal. Ross Ludwig, county Boy Scout executive, will moderate.

Pike Urges Citizen Interest In Affairs

LISBON — "More participation by citizens is needed to insure sound local government," Attorney Charles Pike of Lisbon, told members of the Rotary Club Tuesday night at Hotel Wick. Pike said "Good government starts from the ground up." He urged residents to attend council meetings and voice their opinions on current matters.

City Must Solve Sewage Problem

at $4,000 the owners will pay an extra $4 a year (this is based on the maximum millage that can be charged) if the bond issue passes. For 25 years this would be $100. Added to the $268 he will pay in sewer tax over a similar period the total comes to $368.

Income From Industries Up

Ironically, with the 35 per cent tax the city is receiving more receipts from industry than it did under the 65 per cent. The reason for this is that under the old system industry had the option of either paying the straight 65 per cent or 22 cents per month per employee. Most chose the latter.

In the two and two thirds quarters the tax was collected from the top 16 industrial water users under the old plan, an average of $3,239.10 per quarter was paid to the city. Under the 35 per cent tax the average has been $3,522.73 per quarter for one and two thirds quarters. And, many industries who have their own wells for their water supply, but who use city sewage facilities are not paying the tax.

The ordinance that created the 35 per cent tax states that such cases would be charged on the basis of the amount of water poured into the sewers, but that has been almost impossible to enforce.

There are other questions that come up in regard to the bond issue. One is how will the city secure additional revenue from water users outside the city limits. While they are now paying one and one half times the 35 per cent tax city users pay, this figure will not be in proportion to the possible hike of a mill that city users will be paying for the sewage plant if the bond issue goes through. Proponents of the issue claim that the answer to this would be to bring them into the city. Opponents retort that unless they wanted to come into the city this would almost be impossible.

Another question is what effect a rise in the property tax will have on industry here. With high valuations industrial concerns will naturally feel the increase very much. What will be the reaction of industry here now and businesses that might be planning to come to Salem?

"To believe that the tax duplicate can remain low at the expense of city service is folly," Aldord declares. "It is up to the people of Salem, not industry, to determine the tax."

Linder counters this stating, "It declares, 'It is up to the people of Salem to raise taxes to such an extent as to drive industry from the city or to prevent new industry from coming in. Many cities spend large sums of money attempting to get industry. When any industry threatens to leave there is a great deal of concern and much time and effort put forth to keep the industry in the community.'"

The money for the sewage plant must be raised some way. The 35 per cent tax on water isn't at all sufficient to raise the necessary $750,000. The income from it will just meet the estimated cost of $38,482 for operating the present sewage plant in 1955 and the yearly payments of interest and principle on the $325,000 worth of mortgage revenue bonds.

So, if the bond issue fails, what then? There are a few alternate steps. One official estimated that a city income tax would bring in at least $300,000 a year. Another possibility is a city amusement tax.

Goshen Organization Gets State Charter

Goshen Community Center in Butler Township was granted a non-profit corporation charter today by the secretary of state. Incorporation papers list the following persons as trustees: Rev. Robert E. Mosher of Damascus, and Mrs. Harold Brown and Mrs. Joseph E. Bush, both of RD 1, Salem. R. H. Dankief of Damascus is statutory agent for the newly-formed corporation.

Pledges and contributions are being sought to raise $6,000 for improvements to and payment of the property recently purchased through the Damascus Ruritan Club.

The center consisting of 9½ acres of ground on which a log cabin is built, was purchased recently from Leonard Redman for $4,000. Immediate improvements needed are drilling a well, installing restrooms, and providing electricity.

The center, adjacent to Quaker Canyon at Damascus, is to be used by Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H Clubs, and as a general community center for youth and other organizations in the Damascus area.

Judge Urges Tighter Laws To Lessen Juvenile Delinquency

More rigorous laws relating to moral offenders in juvenile courts in Ohio, were advocated today by Judge Louis Tobin in a letter to the Ohio Association of Juvenile Court Judges.

He outlined four major changes including harsher punishment for sex criminals, laws placing the responsibility of teen-age crime on parents, extended local authority over illegal liquor sales and regional correction centers for young offenders.

His recommendations will be aired before the association at its annual meeting Jan. 24-27 at Columbus.

Judge Tobin advised that sex offenders and deviates involved with juveniles be committed to state hospitals. "More stringent laws than now exist are needed to cope with moral offenders," he wrote in a letter to Judge Clayton W. Rose of Franklin County, president of the association. He said he believes a thorough mental examination "will help to get at the roots of the situation."

More power should be given local authorities to cope with taverns selling liquor to minors, the judge believes. At present the court can fine violators, but the State Board of Liquor Control has sole authority to suspend licenses.

There is a great need for regional detention homes for youthful offenders, the judge declared, since smaller counties can't finance their own detention homes and state institutions are cramped.

Judge Tobin said a law is needed requiring county commissioners to establish a fund for extradition of their accused of failing to support their children, and have moved outside the state. Now, fathers charged with non-support must be indicted by grand jury before they can be extradited.

from the United States and Britain to:

1. Keep their forces in Germany;
2. Bar German manufacture of major weapons — jet aircraft, atomic arms, the bigger guns and the like;
3. Back a system of manpower ceilings that would hold the German forces to something like the French level.

Whether such guarantees would satisfy the French Parliament is something nobody can predict.

The present Brussels treaty provides that any attack on a signer will be met as an attack on all.

The British plans for its expansion reportedly call for each nation to retain its own national forces, rather than EDC's pooling under a supranational organization to which so many Frenchmen objected. The British plan also would permit the extension to West Germany of NATO's joint international planning, training and supply programs.

be greeted by almost 70 reporters and cameramen. "Well, I see the newsmen make the news today," Applegate shouted in his usual bantering manner.

As the newsmen gathered around Applegate shouted again: "Let us go up to our rooms and calm down first. We're too shaky to talk. We'll talk to you later."

All three men were bearded, Dixon, 25, seemed in the worst shape — thin and very pale.

The trio had been captured by the Reds March 21, 1953, while sailing Applegate's yacht to the Portuguese colony of Macao.
